Favorable Trade Agreements
Between U. S. and CanadaROOSEVELT, KING REACH ACCORD
FOR TWO NATIONS

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—After three days in Washington Premier King has returned to Ottawa with a reciprocity agreement; a pact which Ex-Premier Bennett tried five years to get. President Roosevelt reacted instantly to the courtesy of the new Canadian Prime Minister and took very little time to make up his mind that the terms proffered by Mr. King were equitable to both countries.

Immediately after the government took office on Thanksgiving eve Mr. King called on the American minister here and at once opened negotiations for a reciprocity pact. The negotiations continued and when Mr. King went to Washington last week the ground was all prepared.

Mr. King's diplomacy succeeded where Mr. Bennett's failed. The terms of the agreement have not yet been made public, but will be announced as soon as the details have been worked out.

There can be no hitch in the promulgation of the agreement, for the President and the Premier negotiated on the basis of the powers of both possessed and neither the Canadian parliament nor the American congress can prevent the agreement being consummated. Parliament and congress, having final power could revise the agreements, but for the present the pact will stand as reached by Mr. King and Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. King expressed great gratification today. He had just returned from the Remembrance Day ceremonies, and in announcing the agreement in his office he said: "The negotiations show a troubled world the way to solve its problems."

"I am glad on this Armistice Day, to be able to inform you that the governments of Canada and the United States have reached a definite trade agreement," said Mr. King.

Terms Approved
"The terms of the agreement were approved by the government of Canada at a meeting held this morning, prior to the proceeding to Parliament Hill. The formal text is now being prepared for signature. The agreement will be made public simultaneously in Canada and in the United States on the date of signature. It is expected that it will be possible to have the agreement in readiness for signature in the course of a few days."

"These are definite agreements which eliminate disagreements and unreasonable trade restrictions," Mr. King stated. He could not say when the agreements would be published.

AVONGLEN NOTES

The whist drive and dance at Avonglen sponsored by Harmony U.F.W.A. on Friday, November 8th, was a decided success in spite of the inclement weather and bad roads.

Eleven tables of whist were played the first part of the evening. The lucky players were: Mrs. Wm. Prior, who won the ladies' first (a silk scarf); Mr. Shotts carried off the gents' first (also a silk scarf); the ladies' second went to Mrs. S. M. New (a beautiful glass cake stand); the gents' second to Mr. Lambert (3 striped satin handkerchiefs, while Miss Marjorie Briuk and Mr. Jack Hudson came in for the consolations. Lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

After the cards, the drawing for the auto rug and six other prizes took place. Miss Kippen (teacher at Avonglen school) and little Ellen Allen of Education Point handled the drawing. Holders of the lucky tickets were as follows: 1st prize (all-wool auto rug), Miss Anne Kennedy; 2nd (5th box Scotch shortbread), Mrs. F. J. Scott; 3rd (wool sofa cushion) Miss Anne Kennedy; 4th (Berry set), Mrs. Anne Coulman; 5th (centre piece), Mrs. B. Clelland; 6th (ladies' apron), Mrs. S. Walker, and 7th (bath towel) went to Mrs. S. Walker also.

The Larson orchestra which had been secured to play for the dance failed to put in an appearance; instead Messrs. E. Prior, Jack Hudson, and Howard Riddle put pep into the light fantastic until the wee small hours of the morning. Then all went home declaring it had been a most enjoyable night.

but it will be within a short time and it will then be known when their terms will be effective.

President Roosevelt spoke at Arlington cemetery in an Armistice commemoration this morning and it was arranged that he should make a statement, as Mr. King did in Ottawa.

In order to make this possible Mr. King called his cabinet for 9 o'clock this morning and went over the terms of the agreement. They were unanimous and also expressed the desire that Mr. King himself should sign the pact. The prime minister will therefore return to Washington to sign the agreement when it is ready.

No Restrictions
Mr. King made it clear that the pact contained no restrictions that would interfere with Canada's agreements with other countries. It is understood that Mr. King some time in 1936 will go to England for the revision of the trade agreements with the United Kingdom. For the present the Ottawa agreements will stand.

Mr. King will receive plenipotentiary powers from the King to sign the new agreement with Washington. The next problem to be tackled by the government will be the so-called reform legislation which has been referred to the supreme court. To give time for the decision and consideration the conference with the provinces, has been postponed to December 9, when the whole question of social legislation will be dealt with.

Party of Danes to Settle Near Jarrow

We are informed that several families of Danes have bought C.P.R. land a few miles north of Jarrow and will occupy the land next spring. This means that several of our good farmers will have to dispose of their cattle for the new settlers will deprive them of the open pasture.

Angus McGregor has been taken to Edmonton and is under the care of Kelly. We can't blame a man for seeking every means at his disposal to get bodily relief.

Brigedman St. has been confined to the hospital at Viking. We understand that his heart has been in a serious condition.

Mrs. Sam Murray has sold her farm. We are sorry to lose her and her daughter Jessie from the community.

Mr. Ralph Peet has left for Lacombe, where he has secured work for the winter months.

During the winter the service in the United church will be held at 12:30 instead of 7:30, commencing next Sunday.

Joyce McNabb, being six years of age November 12th, had a nice party this week to which her many little friends were invited.

Mr. Ezra Dennison and family moved to Edmonton the last of the week.

The winter has caught us early this year. The snow is heavy on the ground, and we fear that there will be much shortage of feed before the winter is over.

Fortunately several car-loads of coal have been shipped to Jarrow and disposed of. Our people realize the necessity of preparing for winter.

NEWS LETTER FROM EDMONTON

By T. B. Windross

Edmonton, Nov. 12.—This week a very important announcement was made at Edmonton by Premier Aberhart. It is important because it indicates what is being done and planned by the Social Credit administration to meet the financial situation in which it found the province when it took office. A plan to refund the whole of the province's public debt so as to put it on a lower basis of interest payments and save a possible $3,000,000 annually for the people.

The public debt of Alberta is now approximately $155,000,000 and the cabinet has come to the conclusion that this huge sum cannot be paid without a reduction in the interest charges being made. The proposal, which has been carefully thought out by the ministry under advisement from Robert J. Magor, Montreal actuary and engineer, will be presented to the Ottawa government this month when Premier Aberhart and several of his cabinet colleagues go to the federal capital.

It is anticipated the cities of Edmonton and Calgary will join in the proposal, and in that case the principal sum will be increased to around $200,000,000, and the total interest saving will be around $4,000,000. A guarantee by the federal government of this sum will be sought.

Another feature of the financial plan of the provincial government is a proposal to transfer the administration of the province's income tax to the dominion in order to eliminate the present duplication and save the province around $60,000 a year in the cost of operating the department here. The federal government's service could be utilized in collecting this provincial tax.

It is proposed to put the collection of the tax in the hands of the dominion income tax department. After making deductions for the cost of collection, the dominion could then place the amount collected to the credit of the province in payment of its indebtedness to the federal government.

The provincial income tax branch has a staff in Edmonton of 34 including assessors and clerks and some changes in this staff would likely result.

The first caucus of the Social Credit members of the legislature has been called by Premier Aberhart for Monday, November 18th and 19th, and it is expected that the gathering, to be held in Edmonton, will discuss Social Credit legislation and what is to be done about preparing for this at the next session. The premier said he expected it will be after the session before plans can be laid for Social Credit operations. But there is a likelihood that some sort of enabling legislation will be discussed at the caucus next week and presented to the legislature when it meets.

Immediately after the caucus of Social Credit M.L.A.s, a meeting between the government and the mayors of the cities will be held to discuss proposals for presentation to Ottawa and to hear the wishes of the cities with regard to debt refunding. The premier has asked the federal government to arrange for a conference with him and his ministers in Ottawa on November 25. It is at this conference, which will precede that of the other provincial premiers and the dominion cabinet, that it is hoped to arrange for the refunding scheme for Alberta.

During the week just past, one dismissal of a higher up official has taken place. E. J. Fream, member of the public utilities commission for the past ten years, received notice that his services would terminate with the end of the month. Some days ago Premier Aberhart announced the decision to abolish the office held by Mr. Fream and to make the utilities board a one man commission with the present chairman, A. A. Carpenter, as the sole member.

Mr. Fream is the eighth high official in the civil service to be dispensed with since the government came into office. The dismissals are all part of the consolidation and reorganization plans of the administration.

Abolition of the Alberta assessment commission was one more step in the consolidation of government services announced by Premier Aberhart during the week. The plan is to transfer the board's work to the public utilities commission on November 15th.

Two appointments have been made during the week to fill vacancies caused by dismissals. They are that of J. D. J. McDonald, of Craigville, to the post of business superintendent at the Ponoka Mental Hospital in succession to Arthur G. Wilson who has held the position for about ten years. Mr. McDonald arrived in Ponoka during last week and commenced his duties at once. And the second appointment is that of A. Snitka, of the Franklin Press, Calgary, to the vacant post of King's printer, left vacant by the retirement of W. L. McLean who was dismissed by the government.

Reports circulated that funds of the Workman's Compensation board were not in proper shape were denied by Hon. Charles Cockcroft, provincial treasurer, when they were brought to his notice. He said the funds are in safety deposit boxes in the Bank of Montreal, Edmonton, and were taken out and counted on January 4, 1935, by the provincial auditor. The funds are required to be taken out and counted each year, the provincial treasurer stated. On December 31, 1934, there was $3,478,001 in bonds and debentures in the funds, which was the amount required to be there.

No increase or decrease is being contemplated in the cost of auto licenses in Alberta, the premier has stated, and rumors to that effect are premature to say the least.

United Church Notes

The unexpected early advent of severe weather conditions has adversely affected the attendance at social gatherings of different kinds. This was noticeably apparent at the annual Armistice day service of remembrance held in Kiefer's hall on November 11 under the auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Usually the hall is filled to capacity with folks from all parts of the community, but this year there were more vacant than occupied seats. Nevertheless several loyal veterans and their families braved the elements and came in from a distance, and the town was only moderately represented. The service, as befitting the occasion, was quietly impressive. The following took part: Mr. W. T. Steele, president; Mrs. H. Adams, the placing of the wreath; Mrs. Caprini Winkel, pianist; Rev. Fr. McGrane gave the address, and Rev. F. Kemp read the Scriptures and prayers.

The aforesaid weather conditions were responsible for the cancellation of the services at the out of town points last Sunday, and according to reports, it is not at all unlikely that the period of closure for the winter season will perforce have to begin at this early date. It is hoped, however, that the newly opened service at Crescent Hill will be an exception, situated as it is on the main highway.

A service there is planned for next Sunday, November 17th, at 3 p.m. As regards the other points the pastor takes this opportunity of expressing to the federation and supporters his regret that his plans for services and visitation have thus been checked and makes the request that word will be sent to him of any cases where his assistance may be needed. While the country services are closed, he proposes, with the kind permission of the editor, to give a short weekly message through this column, and as a start quotes the following by Malthe Babcock:

"Many a good intention dies from inattention. If, through carelessness or indolence, or selfishness, a good intention is not put into effect, we have lost an opportunity, demoralized ourselves, and stolen from the pile of possible good."

"To be born and not fed, is to perish. To launch a ship and neglect it is to lose it. To have a talent, and bury it, is to be a wicked and slothful servant, for in the end we shall be judged, not alone by what we have done, but also by what we could have done."

Social Credit Does Not Need Money Says
Premier Aberhart

Calgary, Nov. 11.—The loan the Alberta government hoped to obtain at Ottawa was required to clear away the debris and pay debts incurred by former provincial governments, Premier Aberhart declared Sunday in an address at his Prophetic Bible Institute.

Taking the opportunity to define government policy on many questions, the premier told his followers the money was not to be used to assist institution of Social Credit legislation or dividend payments. "I am asking no money to put Social Credit into force," he said. "I don't need money."

To Settle An Issue

There are few people in Western Canada, and in the east as well for that matter, who will not follow with lively interest the proceedings before the Royal Commission appointed by the Saskatchewan Government to inquire into all the circumstances surrounding the "On to Ottawa" trek of relief camp strikers, which started out from Vancouver this summer and culminated in the Dominion Day rioting in Regina, in which a city police detective lost his life and scores were injured.

The inquiry, which is to be held in Regina may be regarded as an event of major importance to the whole country, in view of the fact that charges have been made public that the purpose and intent of the movement was to upset the constituted government of Canada and to impose on the country a government by unlawful means.

This has been denied by the strikers' leaders, who have insistently declared that their purpose was peaceful and inspired only with the desire to draw their grievances to the attention of the Federal government and the people in the hope that by this means these grievances would be remedied.

Which is correct, the charge or the denial, the people at large have no means of knowing at the present time, but it is sincerely to be hoped that sufficient evidence will be brought before the Commission to settle the question definitely one way or the other.

The charge, of course, is a serious one, since, if true, it involves a serious threat to the democratic form of government which has been bequeathed to the people of Canada and has been carefully fostered and cherished by them since Confederation. The whole trend of the history of the country since that date has been to bulwark and strengthen that form of government which decrees that at periodic intervals the people of the country shall decide by their ballots at the polls what administrative policies they desire.

On the other hand, if there is no truth in the charge, the public is entitled to know it. During their advance through the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan as far as Regina, the young men making their way towards Ottawa gained a measure of sympathy and support from a section of the public.

Those who assisted the lads on their trip to the capital in the belief that it was a peaceful delegation to supplicate the government to terminate certain grievances, whether those grievances were real or fancied, will want to know whether their confidence was misplaced or not.

Those young men who joined the movement in a spirit of youthful adventure as the strikers progressed through the western provinces, as is alleged many of them did on the assumption that it was a peaceful and law-abiding pilgrimage, will also want to know whether they were bound on an innocent quest or were unwitting and pliable tools in the hands of a menacing leadership, as has also been alleged.

These are matters which should be cleared up definitely and finally for the sake of the peace of mind of the public generally and for the information of participants in the march and of those who sympathized with them and aided them.

There is only one way, however, for these questions to be definitely determined and that is by all those who have specific information on the movement and its motives to come forward and offer their testimony without fear or favor. Such information, no matter what it may be, provided it is reliable, will, it is safe to say, be welcomed by the Commission and the public.

It must be borne in mind that the Commission is purely a fact-finding body. It is not charged with the duty of drawing conclusions from the evidence adduced, or of making recommendations as a result of the information it receives.

The Commission's duties are confined to bringing out whatever facts they and their counsel may be able to secure and, while, no doubt, every effort will be made to gain as much information as possible, the value of the Commission's work to the public will be limited to the extent that such information is made available.

If those who have important information on the subject matter of the inquiry, neglect to bring it to the Commission's attention, to that extent the investigation will necessarily fail to fulfill its full purpose and to that degree the inquiry will be disappointing.

No matter how economically handled a Royal Commission inquiry is bound to involve considerable expenditure and it is to be hoped that those who have information of value will submit it and help the public to secure a good return for the expense entailed.

Extensive Travelling

Journalist Covers 1,250,000 Miles, Always Going Eastward

A man has come to Durban, Natal, who is 22 days younger than any man of his age in the world. He is Mr. M. Franklin Kline. Eleven years ago he set his face to the sun and he has travelled towards it ever since, completely looping first the Northern and then the Southern Hemisphere every year. He has thus been round the world 22 times in 11 years, and, as he has always travelled east, 22 days have been clipped off his life. "I've travelled 1,250,000 miles in my life, always east," he said, "and have never grown tired of it. There are too many interesting things to see. Anyway, I guess I'm wound up now and can't stop. I'm the editor and compiler of the official guide for shipping and travellers to the principal ports of the world, which is published by the Osaka Shosen Kaisha Company, Japan. I visit all the big ports of the world every year, meet the heads of business firms and interview them. I spend all my time in ships, writing and compiling my guidebook, which is published every year. I was born in Tennessee. I came to South Africa in 1901 and found a job in the mines. When the Zulu rebellion broke out in 1905, I joined up with the Transvaal volunteers. It used to be real fighting in those days." Mr. Kline became a journalist after the rebellion, and when in Japan he conceived the idea of issuing a shipping guide-book as a means of travelling round the world. This was so successful that he has continued travelling ever since.

Requests For Dionne Bowls

Premiums Have Been Given To People All Across Canada

That the Dionne quintuplets are very dear to the hearts of the people of Canada is amply demonstrated in the tremendous demands for the "Quint" souvenir bowls being given away as premiums in connection with Quaker Oats. Although the premium offer was first made only a comparatively short time ago, it has already literally thousands upon thousands of requests for the bowls have been received from families all over the Dominion. Requests for premiums, according to The Quaker Oats Company, come from people in every part of the country, and from both men and women, as well as children.

The premium offer of chromium bowls is a reproduction of the heads of the five famous babies in intaglio on the bottom, and their names are constantly printed on articles being made to mark the fact that Quaker Oats was chosen by the best food experts in the country as the breakfast cereal for the children. The Dionne Quintuplets have been eating Quaker Oats regularly since their very earliest months.

Quaker Oats was chosen because of its remarkable richness in Vitamin B. Food editors of leading publications are constantly printing articles stressing the importance of this vitamin. They also recommend oatmeal because of its abundance of body-building minerals, muscle-building protein, and energy-making carbohydrates. So the "Quints" get bowls of Quaker Oats.

Flying Torpedo Boats

War Instrument Capable Of Sinking Biggest Battleship Afloat

Just as Germany startled the naval world in 1930 with "vest-pocket" cruisers, she has again, after five years of intensive experiments, sprung a new surprise in vest-pocket torpedo boats—variously called death boats or flying torpedo boats because of their tremendous speed and flexibility. Carrying two torpedo tubes and capable of sinking the biggest battleship afloat, these "mosquito" boats of 200 tons size reach a speed of 65 miles an hour. For defence against the giants of other navies, they rely on this terrific speed, not armament, as they dart forward under cover of smoke screens, the technique demonstrated at the Baltic naval manoeuvres.

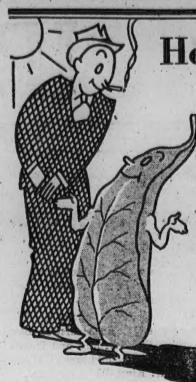

"Early erroneous reports claimed that the vest-pocket torpedo boats were manned by a crew of only five men, a 'suicide crew' whose object in war would be simply to drive their little craft loaded with explosive straight into enemy battleships, taking their chance to survive by leaping overboard at the last minute. The United Press ascertained that the crews actually number 22, eight on deck, eight in the engine rooms and six officers.

Illuminated Highways

Cars Without Lights—Traffic Signals Received By Radio

Illuminated roads, on which motor car lights would be unnecessary, were envisaged by A. T. Y. Robinson, deputy secretary of the ministry of transport, at a combined session of the engineering and psychology sections of the British Association, which mainly dealt with road traffic problems.

"It may be that within the next decade, on all the more intensely trafficked roads, the approaching driver will see an oncoming vehicle, not as a couple of spots of dazzling light with a black background, but as a dark silhouette against an adequately illuminated background," he said.

The advances of recent years were still all dependent for their efficacy upon their visual perception by the driver of a road vehicle and his readiness to respond.

"The road driver of the future may hear traffic signals on his car radio set," said Mr. Robinson.

Grasshopper Menace

Infestation For 1936 Believed To Be Higher In Manitoba

Indications of grasshopper infestation for 1936 are much higher than for many years, Dr. R. D. Bird of the Dominion entomological laboratory, Brandon, Man., told the Manitoba grasshopper control committee in Winnipeg.

The areas of heaviest infestation, according to indications of egg deposits in the soil, are in patches south and southeast of Winnipeg, said Dr. Bird, who has just completed a survey of egg beds. Lighter infestation is indicated over a wide section of the southwestern part of Manitoba.

The corn borer is able to subsist upon all herbaceous plants and has already been recorded as feeding upon no less than 167 kinds of plants in the United States.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

MISS ALADDIN

"The Unknown Port", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and miss the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adams, and Nancy go to the prairie home of Matthews' uncle for the ride, and after Nancy and Jack have been home, they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road with its back wheels resting in a snow-filled gully. Their car being wrecked, Jack and Nancy stay with the children and do all they can to help. The next morning Jack sets out for help in the blizzard. He succeeds in finding help, and the party of children and Nancy are rescued. As a result of the exposure Nancy's feet are badly frozen and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia, but both of them recover.

Now Go On With The Story

"The same, lady—or one branch of it anyhow; and after last night's rain the brooks and rivers will be full. You'll lose your mind over the road ahead, Nancy."

Mark was right. They followed a mountain stream bordered by giant firs and quaking aspens. The mountains were greener here. "More friendly," observed Nancy. "More like New England." And after a camp-fire lunch, with the historic Platte rippling peacefully at their feet, Cousin Columbine told some of the old tales which never failed to stir her audience.

"When we get home," Jack prophesied, watching his sister's rapt countenance with some amusement. "Nancy will bore all her friends with stories of pioneer days in Colorado, and storm the library for literature on the subject."

Father Adam looked up with a smile. "In that case, I've a little book by a young Englishman which I'll present to you, Nancy. It's worth reading."

"You mean the fellow who landed at Vera Cruz, came up through Mexico and camped for a time at South Park—Bayou Salade, they called it then?" asked Matthew.

His father nodded, and went on: "I wish I could recall something one of our western poets wrote about him. It says:

"Alone through dusk he sat—
Safe in Bayou Salade above the Platte,
Safe from the rumbling dust to Santa Fe,
Cool in the woven spruce that courtained day.
While . . . . ."

John Adam paused, unable to remember further, and to the surprise of every one, Matthew, dreamy eyes watch— the river, continued:

"While good Pancho browsed along the sage
Beyond the picket fire, it was an age
Of picket fires,
Broiled beaver-tail was good
Better than dripping hump-ribs,
—cedar wood
Was sweet in happing, snapping, crackling bright
Alone, the boy, Bayou Salade, and Night."

There followed a moment of appreciative silence as Matt ceased speaking. Then Luke exclaimed with admiration: "Geel brother how'd you ever remember that?"—while Nancy, realising that with this honest praise Matthew's self-consciousness had returned again, tactfully drew attention away from him by asking:

"Did any of those old, old Spanish expeditions come this way?"
"I couldn't say, my dear," responded Cousin Columbine. "They may possibly have passed near Pine Ridge, though that, I believe, has not been proved."

And no one dreamed that the girl who sat there, lost to the present in visions of other days, was to discover what looked astonishingly like the missing proof.

CHAPTER XXIII

It was on the fourth of July when Jack announced at breakfast that with their departure only two days away, the time had come to tackle the sagging gate posts.

"You can't put me off another hour," he insisted (wrote the old lady said: "Both those posts, Jack. Don't waste your strength on 'em"). "I'm two pounds heavier than before the blizzard, Cousin Columbine, thanks to these lazy days and Aurora's cooking; and those posts give me the heebie-jeebies. If there were time I'd paint the house for you."

"You may have that to look forward to when you come again!" she responded, endeavoring to speak briskly. "I hope your father will consider John Adam's offer of a job for the winter, Jack, and send you back to us. As for Nancy—I don't dare think how still the house will seem without her. I felt like a lost soul the days you stayed at Prairie Ranch."

For the visit to "Uncle Tom's" was over—three days that had softened the memory of those cruel, wind-swept plains, leaving instead a vision of flower-dappled prairie.

"If it weren't for this stack of newspapers and letters," Nancy confessed the day she stowed them in her trunk, "that whole ghastly experience would seem a dream."

"A nightmare, I'd call it," corrected Aurora. "Victor Tubbs says I lost ten pounds during that blizzard; and as for Miss Columbine, she'll never be the same woman again. It's my opinion that if Eve and John Adam hadn't took their lives in their hands and drove down here to keep her company, she'd have lost her mind."

"And it's my opinion," retorted Miss Columbine, who had come in unobserved, "that you were in a lot more danger of losing yours! Don't talk nonsense, Aurora Tubbs."

Nancy laughed at the time, even though something told her that in a measure Aurora was right. One pays toll for hours like those, and Cousin Columbine had not escaped. The old lady was a shade less brisk, less energetic; and Nancy hated to think how lonely she would be when left with only Aurora Tubbs for company.

"If I were twins, or could be in two places at once," she confided in General Grant as she undressed one night, "it would solve the difficulty. What's the use of being a great general, anyway, if you're incapable of advising me, Ulysses S.?"
But if the General saw a solution of the problem, he kept it to himself; and the days passed with Cousin Columbine looking a bit grim when she thought no one noticed, and Matthew Adams losing his appetite to an extent that alarmed his troubled mother. And now tickets and reservations were ordered. Mary Taylor had promised (with Luke's assistance) to watch over the Aladdin Library; and Nancy was conscious of a new sensation, something she described to herself as "a sinking feeling down inside," each time she caught a glimpse of the unasked question hovering mutely, hopelessly in Matthew's expressive eyes.

So she was relieved when Jack mentioned the neglected gate posts. The task would occupy both time and thoughts till afternoon, when they were to have a farewell supper at the Adam ranch.

"Don't worry about Jack," she said to Cousin Columbine. "I'll help with the digging. Let's get to work before the sun's too hot."

The old posts, rotted at the bottom, were dislodged with little difficulty.

New Era In Plane Travel

Stratosphere Ships To Travel Above Clouds At Terrific Speeds

Designers of Britain's next air marvel, the stratosphere aeroplane, hope that it will reach a height of at least 50,000 feet, and travel at speeds equal almost to the 340 miles an hour achieved in the last Schneider Trophy race.

These features are the official aims of the air ministry for the special aircraft being built by the Bristol Aeroplane Company at Bristol.

Details of the machine's design are being kept secret, but the expected performances were made known recently.

This craft may be the forerunner of a new era in long-distance travel.

Although balloon ascents have been made to the stratosphere, no aeroplane has carried out any satisfactory tests there. But it is believed that once a machine and engine can be built to reach the necessary height—eight or nine miles up—remarkable speeds will be achieved.

Storms are unknown in the stratosphere and balloonists who have been there report that they never sighted a cloud.

Not only must the engine be super-charged, but the hermetically sealed pilot's cabin must be kept at sufficiently high air pressure to enable a man to live in the rarefied atmosphere.

Accidental Discovery

Explosive Discovered Valuable Because Of Cheap Chemical Ingredients

Discovery of a new explosive of "high shattering power" in the remnants of a laboratory experiment which "went wrong" was announced by Professor A. T. Bowden, head of the College of the Pacific Chemistry Department at Stockton, Calif.

The explosive, Professor Bowden said, might prove of considerable commercial value because of its cheap chemical ingredients. Last year, he said, a minor classroom explosion resulted from an experiment which had been performed successfully hundreds of times before. Seeking conditions causing the blast, Professor Bowden and a group of students made the discovery.

British Eggs By Air Mail

Eggs Delivered From England Were Hatched In Australia

An experiment in sending British eggs by air mail to Australia, to be hatched by Australian hens, has proved a great success, as two sturdy Rhode Island chicks hitherto unknown in Australia prove. Mr. F. F. Finney, assistant secretary of the Poultry Club of New South Wales, received two settings of Rhode Island Red eggs by air mail. They were despatched fifteen days earlier by Lord Greenway from his farm at Stanbridge Earls, Romsey (Hampshire). The two chicks hatched out 23 days after receipt.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

(Too late for last week)

The last W.C.T.U. meeting was held in the U.C.T.H.

An impressive Thanksgiving service preceded the usual order of business, taking the place of the ordinary devotional exercises. The scripture reading, emphasized the text: "Trust in the Lord and Do Good." Rev. Mr. Kemp, new honorary member, led in prayer; Mrs. Locke read an interesting account of the origin and subsequent history of Thanksgiving day; Mrs. Osterhout gave a very sympathetic rendering of Will Carleton's "Thanksgiving"; Mrs. Coffin also read a Thanksgiving poem.

The recent petition asking for a local option vote re establishing a beer parlor in Irma was discussed, all legal points relative to the matter being brought into the open. It was urged that all those who are conscientious objectors to this scheme show their interest in the matter by earnest activities.

A resolution was passed to send Premier Albert a letter urging more instruction in scientific temperance in public school grades.

A very pretty lunch was served by the village women members. Five visitors were present.

PREMIERS TO MEET ON DECEMBER 9th; PARLEY DELAYED

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Prime Minister King announced Monday the date of the forthcoming dominion-provincial conference had been changed from November 27 to December 9.

The premier said Dec. 9 was a better date because it would give conferences an uninterrupted week in which to work.

He hoped the supreme court would be able to give its decision, by the time the provincial premiers arrive, on the references before it.

SPORT PEEPS

Can you imagine a Norwegian improving the Scotchmen how to improve their great national winter game of Curling? It has been done in Viking. Along comes Ole Olson, a son-of-a-gun of Ole, and transforms the ice surface into the vivid hues of the rainbow. The visitor now sits in comfort behind the glass, and views the far end quite clearly, able to decide for himself just which rock is "shot" approximately. The ice-base has been coated with white, making a fine contrast for the colored lines and rings. You will enjoy a visit to the rink, to see what this artist has accomplished.

Monday was "Armistice Day" but it was battle day for the curlers. The President with twenty men did his best to discomfit the Vice President with his five companies of 20 rock-throwers. The day was not quite long enough to complete the contest, but when the sun sneaked behind the snowbanks for his nightly repose, President Graham wore his broadest smile, for his cohorts were then five points up. The final outcome was left with W. D. Murdoch and H. B. Collier, who like Goliath and David, have to settle the war by themselves. As the total points determine the winning side, this one game is crucial.

The Canadian Rugby Union introduced a system of signs this fall, so that referees could signal their decision to players and spectators. Just as in baseball the umpire talks with his hands, rugby becomes more intelligible to the public, through this new way-sign system. Hands on hips, for instance, means "offside". Looks like quite a good idea.

Lovers of billiards received a treat in Edmonton last week when two experts gave exhibitions. The super skill with which these men made the ivory roll wherever they pleased, amazed the grandstand. Even the best players realized they had a lot to learn before they knew how to play this game. There is no such thing as luck to a skillful player.

Saturday night brought the hockey game in Toronto to every hut in Canada provided with a radio. The enthusiasm of the announcer, supercharged by that of the ticket-holders, is communicated to the fans over the whole dominion. Sometimes Hewitt gets so excited he fairly chews his tongue.

Trade Agreements Signed

While the terms of the reciprocity pact between Canada and the U. S. have not as yet been made public, indications are that they will benefit western farmers, wheat growers and cattle men to no small degree. Already a note of optimism is heard on all sides. Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt during their conference considered the benefits that will accrue to both nations, and the very friendly references to Canada made by the President in his armistice day address shows how sympathetic he is to the proposals made by Prime Minister King. In seeking to have these important agreements made at such an early date since his election to office, Mr. King has already implemented one of his most important election pledges to the Canadian people.

A Progressive Nation

Sweden is today the most prosperous country in Europe and with the highest standard of living. The other Scandinavian countries are not far behind. With the rest of Europe, largely, war-frenzied under dictators and despots, Sweden goes serenely on its way, years and years ahead, economically and socially, of the rest of the world.

This situation did not just happen. There is a cause and reason for it all. In Sweden for years the government ownership of public utilities and electric power has been a reality, not just a dream. Government there has also taken over control of the sale of tobacco and liquor, and much of the great forest and mineral resources of Sweden are government-controlled. The country teams with both producer and consumer co-operatives; and their civilization will not be fleeced from its people by the Shylocks of money, the government of Sweden controls its own money—Minnesota Leader.

Friendship Knot Closer By Agreements Says President Roosevelt

Washington, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt revealed today that he and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, "have reached a definite agreement which will eliminate disagreements and thus work to the advantage" of both countries.

Text of the president's reference to Canadian-American relations follows: "It is fitting that on this Armistice Day, I am privileged to tell you that between us and a great neighbor, another act cementing our historic friendship has been agreed upon and is being consummated. Between Canada and the United States exists a neighborliness, a genuine friendship which for over a century has dispelled every passing rift."

Closely Knit
"Our two peoples, each independent in themselves, are closely knit by ties of blood and a common heritage; our standards of life are substantially the same; our commerce and economic conditions rest upon the same foundations. Between two such peoples, if we would build constructively for peace and progress, the flow of intercourse should be mutually beneficial and not unduly hampered. Each has much to gain by material profit and by increased employment through the means of enlarged trade, one with the other."

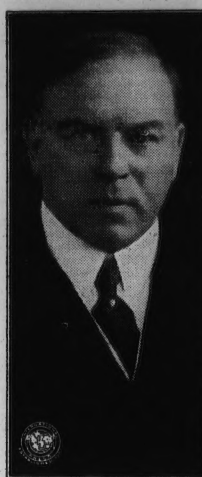

Definite Agreement
"I am therefore, happy to be able to tell you on Armistice Day that the Canadian Prime Minister and I, after thoughtful discussion of our national problems, have reached a definite agreement which will eliminate disagreements and unreasonable restrictions, and thus work to the advantage of both Canada and the United States."

"The power of good example is the strongest force in the world. It surpasses preachment; it excels good resolutions; it is better than agreements unfulfilled."

"If we as a nation, by our good example, can contribute to the peaceful well-being of the fellowship of nations, our course through the years will not have been in vain."

A Scot was somewhat shocked to discover that Sandy, his fellow-worker, carried his wife's false teeth in his pocket during the day. Inquiring the reason, he was told: "I have a suspicion the woman eats between meals."—C.N.R. Magazine.

Viking News Items

The annual banquet held under the auspices of the Viking Branch of the Canadian Legion last Monday evening in the Elks hall proved a most enjoyable affair. The veterans with their friends and guests to the number of 100 sat down to a sumptuous banquet served in the hall, the catering being under the supervision of Laurie Rasmussen. With Cde. Pres. A. E. F. Cary as toastmaster and master of ceremonies the banquet program which was short and sweet went merrily on. Observance of a two minutes' silence to absent and departed members was made by all standing at attention; toasts to the King and Queen were given, and also to the ladies.

The banquet resolved itself into a most informal and jolly affair. Games, music and dancing were enjoyed. A sing-song of favorite army songs of long ago were heartily sung by all, with Mr. Glover at the piano. A vocal solo by Mr. D. Scott, a harmonica solo by W. J. Brown and selections by the orchestra (Ken Hilliker and Rusk Alexander) were other enjoyable numbers.

sell Alexander) were other enjoyable numbers. On account of the sudden illness of Mrs. Cameron Glover, vocalist the concert advertised to be held in the Elks hall on Monday evening, November 18th, has had to be postponed until further notice.

In solemn observation of the seventeenth anniversary of the armistice that ended the carnage of the great war, returned men, ex-service men, and the general public of this and surrounding districts gathered in the Elks hall on Sunday, November 10th, at 3 p.m. to pay tribute to those who fell and lie in Flanders' Fields during the titanic struggle. The services were in charge of Rev. L. Saugen, pastor of the Viking Lutheran church.

Storing Farm Machinery

(Experimental Farms Note)
Proper care should be exercised at all times to protect the large investment in farm machinery from rapid deterioration. Heat, wind, moisture, frost and direct sunlight are the most destructive elements encountered by farm equipment.

Storage means protection against these deteriorating effects during the inactive life of the machines and has been found by the Dominion Experimental Station, at Swift Current, to be the greatest single factor in prolonging the life of farm machinery. The most active period of deterioration is during the season of machine use. It is important, however, to protect machinery the year around from the effects of weather. Generous use of paint on all wood and metal parts, wherever the original has worn thin, and the removal to a dry shed of all slats, canvases, knives, plow shares, cultivator teeth, etc., immediately the machine is out of use, will help prolong the useful life of the implement.

Pack all bearings with the correct grade of lubricant. Cover all exposed metal parts worn bright from use with old crankcase or transmission oil before putting the machine aside, even for a few days. This will keep out all dirt and moisture from the bearings and off the wearing surfaces thus preventing excessive wear due to rust.

Clean all seed from drill boxes, make sure that all dirt is removed from the plow or one-way disc bottom that they are well greased before leaving. All straw, grain or weeds should be thoroughly cleaned from binders, combines, separators, cultivators, discs, etc., before greasing and painting for storage.

Bright sunlight and moisture cause exposed wooden parts to warp and crack, paint applied early will prevent this destruction. Metal parts exposed will rust and wear; grease or paint will save these surfaces. Inside storage of grain boxes, wooden drills, wagon running gears, and wooden separators is desirable, but not essential. Outside storage of machinery has been found highly successful at the above station when proper care has been exercised to protect against animals and weather by good fences, the use of paint and proper lubricants.
